

REINFORCE YOUR SECURITY POSTURE

The current work environment has rapidly shifted to emphasize remote workers, and we expect more uncertainty in the coming months. This transformation to working from home has increased the threat surface beyond your organization's network security controls, resulting in more risk and exposure to attacks. With increasing remote workers, you need to increase visibility at the endpoint.

To complicate matters, businesses, large and small, are revisiting their budgets and OpEx spend, but they cannot afford a weakened security posture. We all need to stay vigilant against the bad actors who have become emboldened in these challenging times. A common theme we are hearing from our SMB and mid-market customers is the need for additional help and protection in these changing times. That's where our partnership with Alert Logic can help.

Alert Logic MDR Essentials delivers next generation machine learning-enabled endpoint protection, AWS and Microsoft Azure configuration checks, asset discovery, and vulnerability scanning to help you meet your evolving security needs for remote workers.

Alert Logic would like to offer you 90 days of MDR Essentials free, with your one-year contract. You have the ability to opt-out of the annual contract within the 90-day time period at no charge or further financial obligation.
